LETTER OF RECOMMENDATION

Regarding: Garno Tech — Operations workflow application

To whom it may concern,

As our shipment volume increased, we found that status updates were being copied between spreadsheets, emails, and messaging threads. We asked Garno Tech to build a small internal application that could provide one consistent view for our coordination team.

The first release focused on shipment records, status changes, notes, and permissions for different office roles. Garno Tech also built a simple activity history so our staff could see what changed and when. The system was deliberately kept narrow so we could validate the workflow before adding external integrations.

What stood out was their ability to translate an operational problem into a realistic technical scope. They identified potential gaps early, demonstrated working features regularly, and responded thoughtfully to feedback. The application has made routine coordination more predictable and is now part of our daily process.
